How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy liver. When the liver is torpid the bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.
As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, torpid liver, constipation, etc., I hardly ever find anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the liver and bowels.

Tuberculosis in Rats.

For seven years I have been making almost daily experiments upon the internal organs of dead animals in order to increase my knowledge of comparative pathology. The postmortem examinations were made for the most part at the Lamparter Gins works, in the suburbs of Lancaster, Pa. Here of course, were the bodies of large numbers of animals which afforded me an abundant supply of subjects for examination. The variety of the works swarmed with rats. Many of these, the workmen told me, sickened and died from time to time, and I became curious to know something about the disease that carried so many of the rodents off.

I could find next to nothing about the rat in books, so the thought growing upon me that the disease so fatal to the rat might be made dangerous to the rat's nearest neighbor, man himself, I undertook a series of experiments. My first rat subject was a sick one which I captured in the yard of the Gins works without any exception. The animal crawled about, made no effort to escape from me and when picked up offered no resistance. Its appearance indicated that it was dying of general debility. Its body was greatly emaciated. Its back was arched and its face bore an expression of distress. It refused food, and in a few hours after being captured was found dead in the comfortable prison in which I had placed it.

My next subject was a healthier and more active rat. I caught him only to mark him and then gave him his freedom. He came into the yard regularly for his rations of flesh from various animals, but gradually showed the same symptoms that marked the condition of my first subject, and in fourteen days after capture he, too, was dead. The postmortem examination of these two cases developed the fact that the lungs were badly diseased. Tuberculosis had destroyed the right lung of each and only a part of the left remained.—Dr. S. E. Weber's Lecture.

Changes in an English School.
In 1834 Mr. Milnes Gaskell writes from Eton that an upper boy "got spurs and rode some of us (lower boys) over a leap positively impossible to be leaped over with a person on your back, and every time (which is every time) we cannot accomplish it he spurs us violently, and my thigh is quite sore with the inroads made by those dreadful spurs; my new coat is completely ruined." In the next year Ashley minor, a son of Lord Shaftesbury, died in consequence of a fight which lasted two hours and a quarter on the same evening. The quarrel originated about a seat in the upper school.

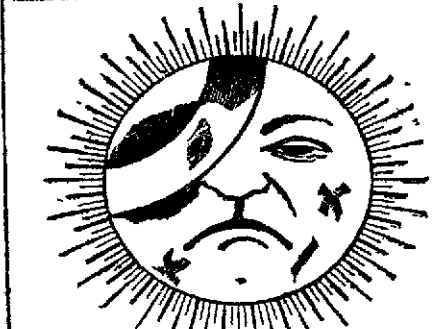

Dr. Keate spoke about the sad event to the school three days later; he blamed the boys for letting the fight go on so long, but was not to be "seduced into any namby pamby peace-at-any-price sentimentalism." He said: "Not that I object to all fighting in itself, on the contrary, I like to see a boy return a blow." Such a state of things has fortunately entirely disappeared; a clergyman, a head master, a doctor of divinity, however much he might feel that the meek acceptance of injuries was not the sign of a keen and generous character, yet would now hesitate to mark fighting with his approval before an audience of boys whom he was bound by statute to instruct in Christian principles.—National Review.

How His Heart Was Won.
When Colonel Van Wyck was running for congress many years ago in the Fifteenth New York district, there was a certain Irishman who steadfastly refused to give the old soldier any encouragement. The colonel was greatly surprised, therefore, when Pat informed him on election day that he had concluded to support him.

"Glad to hear it, glad to hear it," said the colonel. "I rather thought you were against me, Patrick."

"Well, sir," said Patrick, "I wuz, and when you start by me pigger, and talked that day fur two hours or worse ye didn't budge me a hair's breadth, sir; but after ye wuz gone away I got to thinking now ye reached yer hand over the fence and scratched the pig on the back till he laid down wid the pleasure of it, and I made up me mind that when a rale colonel was as sociable as that I wasn't the man to vote agin him."—Nebraska State Journal.

AT THE MERCY OF MANIPULATORS.

The decline in silver bullion, which has been steady for several weeks, is alarming some of those who are responsible for making a money metal, which should have a fixed value, a commodity like lead or iron. The cause of this depreciation in the value of a metal which is used as money everywhere on the globe, excites comment even among Wall street men. Henry Clews, the banker, who says in a circular that the gold interest will be cared for whether Cleveland or Harrison is elected, as both are committed against free coinage, states that the present unprecedented depreciation in silver is largely the result of manipulation by brokers for the purpose of producing an effect upon the value of products as well as of stocks. He thinks it serves no good purpose to deal in silver bullion at the New York Stock Exchange at the present time when the results aimed at are so easy of accomplishment. During the war gold was dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange as silver is now, and it was sent up and down erratically for speculative purposes. The effect was injurious then, when gold was treated as a commodity, but it is worse now when silver is attacked by the bears of Wall street to depreciate all values.

It is high time that the people should free themselves from the shackles of the political parties which are directed by the men who combine to depreciate the value of the metal of which one-half the money of the country is composed, so as to reduce the value of the product of the farm and the factory, the price of labor and the price of land. The price of silver in consequence of legislation, purchased, it is charged, with half a million dollars, is subject to the manipulations of London and Wall street gamblers, who pay for the privilege enough money to control the National Conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties and determine who their nominees shall be and frame the financial planks of the platforms on which they stand.

It is a disgrace to American citizens to tolerate such proceedings. What signifies our boasted intelligence and independence if the wily Wall streeteer, disguised as a Republican or a Democrat, as the occasion may require, can use us as further his nefarious designs and as slaves of party has us rivet the chains with which he binds us? Why not while we have yet strength and ability to do so unite against this common enemy, who to enrich himself is decreasing the value of everything but gold and impoverishing the agricultural and silver producing States, closing our mines and throwing thousands out of employment? Shall the comparatively few people who hold or seek office allure us again from the plain path of duty by appeals to partisan prejudice and the false assertion that the two Wall street candidates are favorable to our interests?

WHAT THE LEAGUES SHOULD DO.

The Lyon County Times, which has been a strong and able Republican paper until it discovered that Harrisonism and Clevelandism were synonymous and that Wall street dictated the financial planks of the Minneapolis and Chicago platforms, gives the following advice to the Silver Leagues:

"The Silver Leagues throughout the State should see that no delegate to the coming State Convention is elected who is not unequivocally in favor of endorsing the Silver electoral ticket. For Republicans to put an electoral ticket in the field would show to people outside that Nevadans were not sincere in their demand for free coinage. It would also be the cause of the Silver Leagues putting in the field a candidate for Congress and Supreme Judge, and a straight ticket in many of the counties."

The Dayton Times says it seems to be the almost unanimous opinion of Republicans in Lyon county that the delegates to the State Convention should be instructed to indorse the Silver party electoral ticket. The Times informs the Carson Tribune that the Republicans of Lyon are not going to vote for Harrison and Reid, who are owned body and soul by Wall street and English goldites, when there is such a man as General Weaver in the field.

The "Dissemblers" has been suggested as an appropriate name for those who pretend to favor free coinage while advocating the election of Wall street candidates.

GLACIERS FOUND IN IDAHO.

All the Pursoners of the Train Robbers Give Up the Chase.

A SUBSTANTIAL TEST MADE

An Imposing Display—The Borden Case at Fall River, Mass.

Glaciers Discovered in Idaho.
Boise, Idaho, August 15.—An immense glacial field has been discovered in an unexplored region of Central Idaho, by F. B. Schermerhorn, a geologist and mineralogist, who is working in the interest of the Idaho exhibit at the World's Fair. Under date of August 9th, he writes Commissioner Weeks as follows:

"As I came over the divide into Big Creek, I saw away to the west among the high mountains, what appeared to be a glacier. Inquiry at Big Creek developed the fact that though two of the men in camp had lived there several years, they had never been able to get up to that snow. They also told me that many had tried it and failed. All had tried to take horses with them. I determined to go on foot. As I advanced the signs of the white mass decreased until they disappeared altogether. The country through which I made my way was the wildest and roughest of any through which I ever traveled, in point of grandeur and picturesque beauty. The view from the peaks rivals anything in mountain scenery in the United States. Beneath the glacier field I found a series of glacial lakes. The glacial fields are quite extensive. They probably cover nearly as great an area, though not so thick, as the great glacial fields of the Alps. I examined sixteen terminal moraines, and of this number eleven were receding, four stationary and only one advancing. None that I saw extended more than 2,000 feet below the snow line."

The writer says that the glaciers are located about 35 miles southwest of a house, and a number of very high peaks that are not down on the maps.

A Substantial Test.

New York, August 15.—A crucial test of the policy of the Government was made today. When Heidebach, Yekelheimer & Co. tendered $1,000,000 in Treasury notes, issued on account of silver purchases and demanded for them $1,000,000 in gold for shipment to Germany by to-morrow's steamer. The Treasury officials made no demurrer, but paid out the money. The transaction caused comment, as no home institution or home banking firm ever in the history of the Government made a like demand on the Treasury and in some quarters the impression prevailed that the exporting firm took the step not so much to make profit on the shipment, which in itself is insignificant for a bank or firm to consider, but really for the purpose of forcing a crisis. Assistant Treasurer Roberts said no steps would be taken by the Administration to prevent or obstruct the export of gold. The Government stands ready to meet all obligations in gold. Its free gold balances now amount to $112,000,000. By this statement of Treasurer Roberts it is clear the Government has already decided to pay all silver treasury notes in gold, it demanded.

An Imposing Display.

OMAHA, Neb., August 15.—Three thousand nobles of the Ancient Order of the Mystic Shrine, with gleaming lances and brilliant apparel, on foot, in carriages and bedstuffed gaily caparisoned camels, wound their way through the oasis of Omaha this evening. The caravan was a magnificent spectacle and as it wound around the trail leading from the temple through the haunts of the traders, it was greeted with a grand display of bonnets, illuminated with pyrotechnics. Twenty thousand people witnessed the grand parade. The Imperial Council of the order opened this morning.

The Borden Case.

FALL RIVER, Mass., August 15.—City Marshal Hilliard said this morning regarding the criticisms made by the press of the conduct of the Borden case, that the newspapers did not have the facts disclosed at the inquest and that the case depended entirely on circumstantial evidence. Liz Borden has not been imprisoned in haste. A member of the Borden family said this morning that the honor of the Borden should not be affected by police suspicion, though perhaps resting justly on Liz Borden, and that no member of the family would in any way hamper the police in their investigation.

Chili Gives Indemnity.

WASHINGTON, August 15.—Acting Secretary Adams today received a cable message from Minister Egan at Santiago saying the Chilean Chamber of Deputies unanimously appropriated $75,000 as an indemnity to the sailors of the United States Steamship Baltimore, and also approved the treaty for the settlement of the claims of citizens of the United States against Chili.

Have Abandoned Pursuit.

YUMA, Cal., August 15.—All pursuers of the train robbers, including Sheriff Kay and the Arizona strikers, returned home today. No traces of Evans and Sonntag were found in the Sierras. Pursuit has now been abandoned altogether, as the robbers have had time to get far away.

A. O. U. W.

Delegates on Their Way to the Grand Lodge.

The Grand Lodge of the A. O. U. W. for the jurisdiction of Nevada, which comprises the States of Nevada, Idaho and Wyoming and the Territory of Utah will meet at Salt Lake City, to-morrow, August 17th. The delegates from Reno to the Grand Lodge are F. McKee of No. 5, and J. K. Seaman of No. 25. The delegates from Dayton, Silver City, Virginia City and Carson, who arrived here Sunday night are J. A. Hantoon, W. A. Donnelly, T. R. Mack, J. G. Young, Alex. Cowan, M. Gule, Frank Edmund and Wm. Taylor.

It is thought that Nevada will be segregated from the other States and Utah Territory by the Grand Lodge.

Little Tippet.

Says the New York Herald of Little Tippet the comedy to be produced at the Opera House Saturday evening, August 20th: "Last night's performance went with fine spirit and the enthusiastic audience, not content with an almost continuous laugh, insisted on several curtain calls. The roll of Tippet was interested by Chas. Bowser, who treated it in a farcical vein, which was thoroughly acceptable. Mr. Ed. Bell, handsome enough to be the idol of the matinee girl, has a fine stage presence, is a finished actor and made an admirable foil for Tippet, in his character of Newton. Miss Mabel Bert is a regal beauty and as Mrs. Tippet was an ideal wife, all tenderness. Mrs. Harry Allen is one of the best old men of the stage and as Uncle Durker, he was as good and benign and meddlesome as the genuine article. Miss Marie Lewes is attractive of face and voluptuous of figure and portrayed Mrs. Newton with an admirable play of varying expression. Mr. Harry Morgan as Gibbs, and Mrs. Harry Bloodgood as Mrs. Gibbs were excellent, and the two babies, bless 'em, captured the audience on sight. The lines are bright and full of wit. Little Tippet is an undoubted success."

An Engineer Seriously Hurt.

Engineer Johnson of the Humboldt Division, while running down Brown's Hill east of Wadsworth, discovered that the air brakes were not working properly, and in getting off his engine to ascertain the cause lost his balance and fell headforemost, striking so hard on his head that he was rendered insensible. He was brought to Reno and placed under the treatment of Dr. Thomas until passenger train No. 4 arrived, when he was sent to the Sacramento Hospital. Up to the time of leaving here he had not regained consciousness.

Extinguishing Grapes.

People often ask what is the use of the abstract studies scientific men and women often indulge in. The reply is you must first discover a new truth before you can tell whether you can make any value of it. The valuable discovery that the black rot can be prevented from injuring grapes by inclosing the bunch in a paper bag is the direct result of scientific studies.

When it was found that the rot was caused by a fungus growing from a little seed or spore which, floating through the atmosphere, attaches itself to the grape berry, it was the easiest thing to think of putting paper bags over the bunch early in the season so that the spore could not get there. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been saved to the cultivator by this bagging of grapes which would have been totally lost but for the labors of scientific men.—McClure's Monthly.

The Ingredients of Fireworks.

The chief constituents of all fireworks are gunpowder and its ingredients. Iron and steel filings and cast iron borings, free from rust, are used to increase the brightness of the display and produce the Chinese fire. When the rocket explodes up in the air the bright and varicolored sparks are produced by these filings as they ignite in the oxygen.

Copper filings and copper salts are used to produce greenish tints. A fine blue is made with zinc filings. A light greenish tint with much smoke is made out of sulphur of antimony. Amber, resin and common salt protected from dampness produce a yellow fire. Salts of strontium make a red light. A green light is also made by the salts of barium.—New York Evening Sun.

The Rat Transmits Disease Germs.

When the reader thinks of the countless number of rats that infest the regions occupied by human beings, of their wonderful reproductive power, and of their seemingly careless but rapid migration from one dwelling place to another hundreds of miles away, he must admit that if it is possible for the rat to convey disease germs from point to point this power for evil is incalculable. When he left plague stricken London and sought another field did he leave the plague behind, or did he keep a share of it to distribute elsewhere?—Dr. S. E. Webber's Lecture.

Nothing is more disheartening to a man than the discovery that he has married a woman who loves to keep his wife's table in order.

DEATH IN THE DRIFT.

HEROIC DROWNING OF A CONVICT WHO DIVED FOR HIS GUARD.

Heroism of Texas Convicts to Save the Life of Their Keeper—A Thrilling Story of an Escape and an Attempt at Capture—The Lucky Negro Returns.

The bodies of William H. Camp and Andy Ward have been recovered. They drifted ashore on the west bank of the Brazos river, at the Steiner farm, twelve miles below Waco.

William Camp was a guard on the county convict farm. Sam Johnson, a negro convict, suddenly made a dash from the cotton patch, where he, with other convicts, was chopping cotton, and, running to the river, plunged in and struck out for the other shore. George Oglesby, one of the lessees, and William Camp, one of the guards, mounted and gave chase, taking the river and swimming their horses in the wake of the negro. Camp led and carried his shooter in his hand, while the lessee followed closely, both horses swimming gracefully.

The river was up and the drift was going down in large quantities. This float was a little of everything floats find upon invaded shores. There was here a fencepost with a bit of barbed wire trailing, the wire dragging something else. Next a dead cow, a trestle, an old boat upturned and frequently a panel or two of fence, all moving like a platoon bristling with the barb wire invented to turn cattle. Through this labyrinthine swimming negro, with wonderful dexterity, took his way. But the horsemen, after reaching the channel, found that they could not proceed, and reluctantly turned back.

Oglesby's horse, punched by rails, tangled in the lighter drift and wounded with wire, ceased swimming, turned over and went floating on his side. Oglesby swam beside him, and holding his name gently guided him toward the shore, which he safely reached, utterly exhausted. Camp's horse ceased swimming and commenced churning with his hind feet. "Let go his head, and when he starts catch his tail," cried Oglesby from the shore. Camp still held his revolver in his hand. His face was by this time white with horror. The other convicts and guards now lined the shore. Oglesby arose to his feet and shouted: "Men, I am hurt and strangled. I am past swimming. Save Will Camp and I will pay what you choose."

It was an awful place to attempt a rescue. The drowning man still held his pistol and struggled in the drift. One hand was rigidly clasped on the ivory handle and the other was lifted up. Those on shore followed him along as he slowly floated, and Andy Ward was observed to be stripping himself. Lessee George Oglesby also began to pull off his boots. He found that his ankle was sprained and he could not go on with the task. He sat down in despair.

"Save him, Andy," Oglesby cried, and Andy said, "I will if I can, Mr. George." By this time Camp was nearly under; his face could be seen now and then, and one hand still held up the pistol. The other appeared again and again above the eddies in mute appeal. Andy plunged in and swam with powerful strokes, but when he reached out to save Camp the latter went down and arose no more.

Andy dived at the point where Camp sank and came up again. His arm and face were observed to be bleeding; he had been touched by the drift. "Come back!" was shouted to him from the shore, but the brave negro would not hear it. He was bent on the work in hand, and under he went again and again. Presently he came up and gave a wild cry. Then he sank again and came up no more alive.

It was nearly 4 o'clock in the afternoon two days later when a boy on the bank saw Will Camp's body moving in the current. Two hundred yards behind the dead guard floated Andy, whom he had lately guarded. The prisoner had died to save the officer, and was still floating after him, a ghastly travesty of a heroic attempt. Both were taken out and placed side by side. At last the guard had given up his weapon, and the prisoner had been forever free.

While the discovery of the bodies was going on beyond the river on the other side another incident occurred. A crowd stood together watching the struggle. From that side rescue was impossible. The river was 200 yards wide and the drift was thicker that way. Presently a ragged negro, dripping with water, appeared and stood with the others. After gazing awhile he plunged in and swam back.

He regained his companions on the Steiner shore and one of the guards asked, "What did you come back for?"

"To help," was the laconic reply.

This was Sam Johnson, the fugitive, whose escape had caused the death of two men. Before Sam reached the bank he had left half an hour before, William Camp and Andy Ward had disappeared, and the dancing eddies and floating drift were fifteen feet above them.

"Sam came too late," the guard added, and when the others started back for the convict farm Sam Johnson marched with them.—Waco Cor. Galveston News.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine which can truly be said to "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiar in its food name "Blood at home,"—there is now a new record of sales abroad, and over attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly. Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists. Sixty cents. Prepared only by C. T. Royal Baking Powder Is Superior to Every Other.

It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. . . . I will go still further and state that because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.

WEAVER IN OREGON.

The State Will Send People's Party Men to the Electoral College.

G. Norah Weaver spoke in Portland, Oregon, last Friday night, where he was informed that the State would send People's party men to the Electoral College beyond any doubt. In a chat with a reporter General Weaver said:

"I am sure of election and will be elected too, right in the Electoral College. I do not think the election can possibly be thrown into the House. During the past two weeks a wonderful change has taken place in the political situation in this country. By virtue of this change the Republican party has been eliminated from the race. That party stands not a shadow of a chance for success. The Home State matter has caused a study of Republican methods and principles. Therefore the battle line between the People's party and Democrats, and the former has every advantage. We will carry the Solid South. We can do that easier than the Democrats can carry a single Southern State. The people of the South are taken with the Omaha platform. It suits them. The elimination of the Republican party has emancipated the South, and colored and white people alike will vote their choice of tickets. We will carry the entire West solid. Our ticket will get the entire silver vote, since there is no choice on that line between Cleveland and Harrison. The Republicans lost nine States in 1890 which they held two years before. To win they must regain those States and carry all the silver States, and this they cannot do."

"The recent election in Alabama gave us half the Legislature, and but for fraud we would have carried everything. From 25,000 Jones fell to 7,000 majority. During my campaign, which began in Indiana, I have seen wonderful demonstrations. Thousands have flocked to hear me speak wherever I stopped. No, there is no power on earth that can defeat us. Providence is behind this movement. It has been coming for years and the people will no longer be oppressed."

Providence is behind this movement. It has been coming for years and the people will no longer be oppressed."

"The recent election in Alabama gave us half the Legislature, and but for fraud we would have carried everything. From 25,000 Jones fell to 7,000 majority. During my campaign, which began in Indiana, I have seen wonderful demonstrations. Thousands have flocked to hear me speak wherever I stopped. No, there is no power on earth that can defeat us. Providence is behind this movement. It has been coming for years and the people will no longer be oppressed."
